

Allerheiligenkirche Mühlhausen

The All Saints' Church (Allerheiligenkirche) of Mühlhausen, a plain gothic construction with a baroque interior design was fundamentally restored from 1985 to 1989. Since then, the church is a museum gallery worth seeing.

Culture and art within one monument. A visit to the All Saints' Church in Mühlhausen leaves a special impression. Behind historic walls, exhibitions based on the collection of Thuringian Art of the Mühlhausen museums as well as special exhibitions of contemporary art are hidden. With the exhibition area on the construction and restoration history and on the baroque interior design, the Mühlhausen museums pay respect to the Christian monument and the historic-cultural equipment.
