

Friederiken Hot Springs

Friederiken Therme Bad Langensalza | Foto Tino Sieland

A visit to the Friederiken Hot Springs in Bad Langensalza is balsam for body and soul. Gentle recuperation is the order of the day here, incorporating the effects of natural healing remedies.

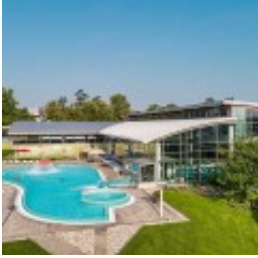

At a temperature of -110 degrees patients slowly walk around the cold chamber of the Friederiken Hot Springs in Bad Langensalza. One of just two facilities of this kind in Thuringia, the chamber offers rapid relief for skin complaints and rheumatic disorders. The water at the Friederiken Hot Springs also has a healing effect. In the approved and certified spa visitors float in warm brine, fed from the renowned sulphur springs. A visit to the spacious sauna area delivers ultimate relaxation.
